

Hey guys! I'm Taylor Ogburn and I'm excited to be teaching a new class at Discovery Studio Performance focusing on song writing. I've been writing songs ever since I was eleven when I picked up my first guitar. Ten years later, I've been a part of Richmond's #1 Pop Band on reverbNation.com, Sonus Dei, given opportunities to write for artists like Justin Bieber. I also have two songs in an upcoming movie being produced in Los Angeles, California. While I'm currently starting up a new band and turning the next page in my song writing career, I'd love to share my experience to some aspiring young artists. Years of practice, trial, and error have shaped my style and creativity, but there are plenty of things I would have loved to have known when I first starting performing. These are the things I will be focusing on in my upcoming classes. So fasten your seat belts, rosin your bow, grab a pen, and get ready to write some awesome songs!
